THE WORLD THIS WEEK
By
Robert Patterson

If the man in the street is somewhat bewildered by the prophecies, forecasts, and interpretations of the struggle in Europe, he owes no apologies. Even the veteran of 30 years' diplomatic experience in America's foreign service, Hugh Gibson, humbly admits the same. Returning to these shores the other day after traveling throughout Europe during the past 15 months, the former ambassador characterized the European situation as being "mostly a series of question marks for which nobody seems to know the answers. There never was a war in which there was so much uncertainty as to where, and how, and when." But if Gibson brought back no easy answers to complex questions, he did bring the interesting information that European opinion is very irritated. Censorship is so drastic that the only way of keeping fully posted on the European situation is through American newspapers and broadcasts! We cannot provide the answers, but we do provide the facts!

One of the biggest—if not THE biggest—jobs of the year faces Californiaon Tuesday, Nov. 7. Election day is both a privilege and a challenge to 3,605,907 registered Californians to go to the polls and vote! Wise and conscientious use of the ballot is essential to the preservation of democracy at all times. That fact becomes doubly true when democratic government itself is threatened by a frank attempt to establish dictatorship in the guise of a pension plan. The Retirement Life Payment act sets up an autocratic, uncontrolled and self-appointed hierarchy over this state. It provides for a super-government responsible neither to the courts nor to the legislature. Voters should remember that even though the courts declare the warrants unconstitutional, the dangerously dictatorial powers granted the administrator of the scheme will remain in full as part of the state constitution. To safeguard California from embarking on any such disastrous course a "No" vote on Proposition No. 1 is imperative. But equally imperative is that every one of California's 3,605,907 registered citizens go to the polls and vote. None can afford to be among the missing!

Determined to skirt the thin ice of controversy, Wisconsin is determined, if possible, to play no favorites in celebrating Thanksgiving day this year. Gov. Julius Heil has officially proclaimed Nov. 30 as the date for Thanksgiving and come what may, all state departments will observe it. But hastily offering balm to those who favor innovation as against tradition, Wisconsin's attorney general announces that if President Roosevelt issued a notice officially proclaiming Nov. 23 as the national holiday, all good citizens of the Badger state will fully honor that date, too. That Solomon-like decision does have merits. It kills two birds with one stone—and both of them turkeys at that.

No war boom but a genuine, constructive drive will achieve one billion dollars' worth of housing construction in the United States this year. Authority for the good news is E. L. Ostendorf, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The present rate of construction indicates some 300,000 new family units will be built during 1939. As one of the nation's long lagging industries, home buildings' prospective billion dollar score rings the bell on the right note.

Girth control can be a life-saver, according to reports presented the other day to the National Academy of Sciences, meeting at Providence, R. I. Submitting the results of examinations of more than 2000 men, taken over a long period of years by specialists of Johns Hopkins, it was found that men close to the average in weight or chest size stand a better chance of longevity. Half of the men studied proved to be short-lived, and the other half, long-lived. In the course of these surveys, a few vulnerable myths were spiked. Contrary to general belief, elevated blood pressures were a sign of long life in the heart cases. Chest expansion had no effect on length of life, despite the common opinion that a large chest expansion is very desirable. Nor did height bear any relation to longevity. Taken as a whole, the findings gave a slightly better edge to those who incline to be lean than vice versa. Henceforth when physicians ask, "Are you keeping in good shape?" patients will have to watch out. It may be a double-edged question.

Local Kiwanis Club Observes 13th Birthday

Campbell Kiwanis club celebrated its thirteenth birthday with a special dinner meeting Tuesday evening which was attended by 55 local and visiting members.

Speaker of the evening was Ezra W. Decoto, Oakland corporation attorney, former district attorney of Alameda county and a former president of the state railroad commission, whose topic was "Friendship."

Others present were Lieutenant-Governor Henry Buell of San Jose, Lieutenant Governor-elect Ernie Crook of Watsonville, Past Lient.-Governor Bay Hays of Mountain View, Past Lient.-Governor Ira R. Abbott of Campbell and Fred S. Kistemann, secretary-treasurer of the California-Nevada district of Kiwanis.

T. A. Cutting, first official president of the Campbell Kiwanis club, presided. President W. R. Morgan opened the meeting.

Next week the Rev. J. H. Bennett will describe interesting items comparing old and modern London, not from the war angle.

Armistice Sun. At St. Luke's In Los Gatos

Armistice Sunday, Nov. 5, will be observed at St. Luke's Epicopal church, University avenue, Los Gatos, at the 11 o'clock service of worship.

The 143rd F. A. band of Oakland will furnish the music of the service and all patriotic organizations will attend in a body. The rector, Rev. David Todd Gillmor, chaplain of the 143rd F. A., will preach, and the full vested choir of St. Luke's, under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Gustafson, organist and choirmaster, will sing the chants. Sergeant Brown will be the soloist.

All people are cordially invited to worship in this service, Armistice Sunday, Nov. 5, at the 11 o'clock hour.

P.-T. A. Board, Study Group Meets Friday

On Friday, Nov. 3, at 2 o'clock, the executive board of the Campbell Union Grammar School P.-T. A. will meet at the home of Mrs. E. R. Kennedy.

At 3 o'clock the study group will meet at the same place, with Mrs. Kennedy in charge. Anyone interested in the study group is invited to come at that time.

Special Services At Mission

A group of Glad Tidings Bible Institute students from San Francisco will meet with the younger members of the Campbell Pentecostal Mission on Wednesday evening, Nov. 8, and have charge of the entire evening service. Herbert Johnson of Campbell is the class president this year.

Next week on Friday evening, Nov. 10, the Libbey family, consisting of ten members, who all play instruments, will take over the evening service. The public is cordially invited to the services.

L. J. Francisco, 18, University of Santa Clara student, sustained shock, cuts, and lacerations when his car was involved in a collision and overturned in front of the Campbell Union high school here last Thursday night, according to state traffic officers Gus Mariotte and George Humburg.

The March of the Dictator!

Alonzo J. Jones Laid to Rest Tues. Afternoon

Alonzo Jasper Jones, resident of Campbell since 1919, passed away Sunday, Oct. 29, in the county hospital where he had been a patient for some weeks.

Funeral rites were held Tuesday from the Melvin chapel in Los Gatos with interment in Los Gatos cemetery.

Jones who was a retired druggist, came here from Nebraska, where his daughter Mrs. Lola Brown, and sons, Harry Jones and Mark Jones still reside. Other surviving sons are Arthur C. Jones of Illinois and Charles Jones of Montana. His wife, Nellie Jones, is the only relative living here.

Jones was a member of F. & A. M. lodge of Pawnee City, Nebr., from which he received a 50 year membership pin last April.

Cambrian Home, School Club Plans Turkey Whist

Cambrian Home and School club is sponsoring a turkey whist party next Saturday evening, Nov. 4, in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Arthur Thayer and Mrs. Gus Horton are co-chairmen of arrangements and they report a good crowd and a good time is expected.

Play will begin at 8:15, to which the public is cordially invited. Proceeds of the party will be used to purchase instruments for the school orchestra.

Lily Pons Concert In San Jose Friday

The great Lily Pons sings in the San Jose Civic auditorium this Friday evening, Nov. 3, at 8:30 o'clock. It is expected that the greatest audience yet seen at the auditorium will be present to hear the famous coloratura. While the advance sale is unprecedented, the management reports that excellent seats are still available, and 500 stage seats have been issued to take care of students and overflow.

Miss Pons' program, with Constantine Callinicos at the piano, and Ary Van Leeuwen, flutist, includes numbers which will show her dazzling passage work and high notes and also the mellow, lyric quality of her phenomenal voice. It includes Dites, que faut-il faire, Anonymous; Alma mis (from Floridante), Handel; Quel ruscelletto, Pqradies; Aria, "Caro nome" from Rigoletto, (the aria which threw the San Francisco audience into a frenzy last week and which drew the largest audience of the opera season); Comment disaient-ils, Liszt; Air de L'Enfant, Ravel; Il pleure dans mon coeur, Debussy; Fantoches, Debussy; Pretty Mocking Bird, Bishop; Les Roses d'Ispahan, Faure; A des oiseaux, Hue; The Nightengale, Alabieff; Dancing Doll, Poldini; Cupid Captive, La Forge; Villanelle, Dell Acqua.

If Ham and Eggs Carries, Pensions Cease

The following is a letter received by a Campbell recipient of the state old age pension, who wrote the governor to find out the status of such pension recipients should the Ham and Eggs measure carry:

Dear Mr. ———

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of Oct. 19, addressed to Gov. Culbert L. Olson, relative to the Ham and Egg plan taking away your old age pension.

If the Ham and Egg plan carries on Nov. 7, it will be impossible for the state to continue paying the $35 a month pension, which incidentally increases after Jan. 1 to $40 per month.

In place of the $35 per month you will, if the election carries, receive warrants, the legality of which is questioned.

Thanking you for writing to the governor, I am

Very sincerely yours,
David L. Foutz,
Public Relations Secty.

Chest Funds Falling Short

Last minute contributions turned in by Ethan Lanphear, manager of the Campbell community chest drive, to Jack Murdock, secretary of the community council, brought the total amount contributed to only $810. This amount is but half of the goal set to be subscribed.

According to Murdock, the two local schools have not been heard from and in proportion to previous years contributions about $325 can be expected from this source. However, with other contributions falling short, this amount may also be lower.

With but an estimated 70 per cent of the $1600 goal, a drastic curtailment of funds given to the various worthwhile organizations in Campbell will have to be made.

Local Girl Is Officer, State Service Club

San Jose, Nov. 2—A Campbell student today had assumed her duties as an officer of the Spartan Spears, sophomore women's service club at San Jose State college. She is Joan Whitehouse, who was formally installed as historian of the organization this week.

Miss Whitehouse was one of eight officers to be inducted at the formal occasion. She will serve during the current quarter.

"Fighting Parson," Play, to be Given For Local Church

"The Fighting Parson" a play arranged and directed by Fred Moberly, with a cast largely from Santa Cruz, who have presented the play before, will be given in the Campbell Union High school auditorium on Nov. 29.

The event is being sponsored by the board of trustees of the Campbell Congregational church, Stanley Smith, chairman, to raise money for repainting the church.

There will be special rates to students. Watch for further particulars and keep the evening of Nov. 29 free.

Woman's Club Will Observe Guest Day

On Monday, Nov. 6, at 2:30 p. m. the Country Woman's club of Campbell will open its doors for their annual guest day, on which occasion members of the club are permitted to invite a guest to share with them the program and refreshments.

Frank Ingerson of Alma, well-known artist, writer and lecturer, will give a review of his play, "To Please George." John Andrews of San Jose State college will furnish the instrumental music and Mrs. Willard M. Farr of Salinas, graduate of music at College of Pacific, will be guest soloist.

Mrs. Ralph H. Hyde, who is chairman of the day, and her committee, consisting of Mesdames E. R. Kennedy, F. R. Anderson, C. P. Klassen, B. E. Walton, Jessie Shelley, L. C. Shank, H. E. Hansen and W. S. Smeed, will serve refreshments.

Adult Class In Photography Is Proposed

According to information received yesterday from Principal W. H. Van Dyke of the high school, a class in photography will be established in the night school for adults program providing a sufficient number sign up for the course. There will have to be at least 12 persons so interested to form the class, Van Dyke said.

Those who propose to take advantage of this opportunity should call the high school as soon as possible so that arrangements may be made for class meeting days and times. These dates and times can be arranged to suit the group after the class is organized.

Ikicaga Group of Campfire Girls Have Party

On Friday afternoon of last week, the Ikicaga group of the Campbell Camp Fire girls held a farewell party in honor of their guardian, Mrs. D. C. Leas. The party was held under the supervision of the new guardian Miss Barbara Coy and her sister, Miss Bernice Coy.

Following a short business meeting, refreshments were served from a table gaily decorated in the Hallowe'en colors.

The group presented Mrs. Leas with a gift telling her of their appreciation for the fine work she had done for them.

Harriet Coy, Scribe

The county board of supervisors, on recommendation of the county planning commission, granted a permit to J. G. Burns for the erection of a store at the northwest corner of Campbell avenue and Third street.

Masons Hold Last Rites for C. T. Fawcett

Friends and relatives assembled at the grave-side in Los Gatos cemetery Saturday morning to hear the Masonic service read for Christopher Thomas Fawcett. Beautifully read by William Noethig, master, the rites were preceded by a brief service conducted by the Rev. Joseph H. Bennett at the Rutherford Funeral Home. There many friends had gathered in the chapel, where lovely flowers spoke silent tribute to a man whose passing brought sorrow to the host of people who, throughout his lifetime of cheerful living, had come to love him.

Lodgemen who acted as pall bearers were Carl B. Field, Dr. Walter I. Merrill, T. A. Robinson, George Robson, Walter Stray, and Walker Vaughn.

"Dad" Fawcett passed away last Thursday at O'Connor sanitarium from complications attending a major operation performed the week before. He had been partially incapacitated for the past several months.

Death claimed him at the age of 88 years; he would have been 89 this month. His birth occurred at Braddocks Fields, Pa., Nov. 27, 1850.

Mr. Fawcett's parents were John and Mary Jane Fawcett, natives of England. When the young Christopher was seven years old, the family, of which he was one of seven children, moved to St. Cloud, Minn., which was then a tiny frontier village. There he attained manhood, and there he learned the trade of cabinet maker, which he practiced until a few months ago.

He was married on Dec. 4, 1872, to Myra Jane Fuller, at Linden, Minn. Three children were born to them: James Ethelbert Fawcett, Maybell Louise Knappen, and Edna Fawcett Smith, of whom the last is sole survivor. His wife passed away in Campbell in December, 1932.

Grandchildren are James Fawcett Knappen of Marysville, Calif.; Richard H. Knappen, Campbell, and Mrs. Wilma F. Krohn of San Francisco. His great-grandson, James F. Knappen, brought him a great deal of pleasure during his last years. A sister, Sarah Lamb of Olympia, Wash., also survives.

"Dad" Fawcett became a master Mason on Dec. 8, 1879. He was a life member of the lodge in St. Cloud, and was an active participant in the work at Bismarck, N. Dak., where he moved in 1905, as was the case when he first came to Campbell in 1912. Lodgemen of this entire district knew him as a well-versed Mason, his knowledge of the work and history of the order seldom being equalled.

He had a philosophy and a religion all his own, and it was based on charity, neighborliness, and the golden rule. Probably no one ever lived who could say he received ought but a "fair deal" from Dad Fawcett—and sometimes considerably more. And no one who knew him but will miss his familiar figure at the work bench, and his still more familiar whistle.

Grammar P.-T. A. Will Meet Tuesday

The regular meeting of the Campbell Union Grammar School P.-T. A. will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 2:30 o'clock in the kindergarten room of the school.

Miss Bessie McCabe will speak on "Recent Changes in the Elementary Curriculum." Special music will be under the supervision of Allan Risdon.

The mothers of the 8th grade will be the hostesses.

Opening of New Richfield Station Is Announced

Joe Manley, proprietor of the new Richfield service station at Winchester road and Campbell avenue is announcing in this issue of the Press, his grand opening on Saturday.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, says the proposed safety belt around our shores is a "nice idea," but seems to concede nothing more. He wonders what will happen when "somebody sticks his nose inside the zone."

Our 'Sub' Zone Is 'Nice Idea,' Says Adm. Land

Admiral Land's opinion is that of a technician and expert on obtrusive noses, particularly those of submarines, and, to be more explicit, German submarines. He got the Navy cross for his work in designing and building submarines in the World war, in which he served as commander of the construction corps, and, in 1919, he turned in a searching technical study of what German submarines had done and what they might do in the next war

The spirited little admiral, a cousin of Charles Lindbergh, has most important business on hand just now, with something like $400,000,000 staked out for building a merchant marine. This business of new ships, and how good a risk they may be on sub-infested seas, is decidedly in his department.

He is a native of Canon City, Colo., born in 1879. After his graduation from Annapolis, he did postgraduate work in naval architecture. Football has engrossed him almost as much as the navy. He was the garrison finish star of that famous "crap game" match between the Army and Navy in 1900, a gridiron hero, and thereafter a successful conciliator in the long-drawn-out army and navy athletics row.

His suavity and persuasiveness are always effective, as when he invited some C. I. O pickets of the maritime commission into his office and talked them into good humor. He succeeded Joseph P. Kennedy as chairman of the commission in February, 1938. He's in a critical goal-keeper's spot just now, and everybody is satisfied.

WORD comes from Paris of the demobilization of Lucien Le Long, the famous dressmaker. The government puts him back on the job designing gowns. "Grace swirl and freedom" has been his rallying cry as a designer. This isn't that kind of war, and perhaps the French think they are wasting his talents as a soldier.

Lucien Le Long Back to 'Grace, Swirl, Freedom'

However, soldiering is one of the best things that M. Le Long does. In the last war, a shell blew him out of a trench into the dressmaking business. Severely wounded, his hearing impaired, he borrowed $2,500, employed 50 midinettes and seamstresses, married the cousin of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, and ran his business up to a daily gross intake of 1,000,000 francs, employing more than 1,000 women. He took with him into the business a Croix de Guerre and two citations. He had been a liaison officer with Allenby in Palestine.

Brisk and businesslike, although still boyish-looking, he says the happiest day of his life was when he freed women from tubular gowns. He has visited this country frequently and is widely known and popular here. His is one of the most interesting of all "between war" careers.

THIS department gets word from a Washington ringsider that Dr. William M. Leiserson, summoned by the President several months ago to unscramble the National Labor Relations board, has been making swift progress and that, just as a matter of war preparedness, the outlook for labor-employer peace is much better. Previously a member of the national mediation board, he was appointed to the labor board to succeed Donald Wakefield Smith, center of bitter controversy. He is said to have greatly clarified and expedited procedure under the Wagner act.

Dr. Leiserson Loosening Knots In Labor Tieup

He is one of millions of American citizens who in late years have seen their native countries taken prisoner. Born in Estonia, he was brought to this country when he was a small child. At the University of Wisconsin, he was schooled in economics. He obtained his doctorate at Columbia in 1911 and made his career in Wisconsin in various state industrial, employment, labor and workmen's compensation posts.

He personalizes and particularizes each case and sees no hope in "legalistic" solutions of labor problems.

Public Sentiment Grows Insistent To Keep Out of European Muddle

Unmistakable Change Is Going on Throughout the Country; People Make Known Their Feelings and Their Thought Is Reflected in Congress.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—While the Roosevelt administration continues to subordinate everything to the general subject of the European war, there has been an unmistakable change in sentiment going on throughout the country and in the capital city. It is inescapable to the merest tyro of an observer. It represents a crystallization of that foggy thing called public sentiment.

The senate has debated the issue of repeal of the arms embargo to the fullest, but the debate has fallen short of telling the whole truth. There was an entire lack of any truly great speeches. Much additional light has been thrown on the whole question of a neutrality policy, yes; but I believe the senate failed to do the job in a way that history will measure as statesmanlike. The amazing fact is, therefore, that public sentiment should have solidified so definitely in such a short time, with a verdict that says: "We will stay out of that European mess; it is not ours, and we will not play their game."

It is always difficult to describe what takes place in the matter of public sentiment, powerful as it is in the United States. But it is easy to describe the condition, the status, of national thought as represented by an overwhelming majority of the citizens. In the current case, it can be told in two sentences. A few weeks ago, the big shots of government were saying: "possibly" we can keep out of war; the present statement is that "probably" we can keep out of the war. It is a vital difference.

The reason for this is obvious. People have made known their feelings. They have made clear that whatever else they may differ about, they are determined and united on the one proposition, namely, that we must not get tangled up with Europe's power politics. Further, existence of this sentiment has been thoroughly reflected in congress and those who would willingly toss our armies into the flame have begun to get scared about their own hides.

Clark Takes Wallop at Assistant Secretary of War

I must qualify that statement that all of the big shots have toned down their remarks. Several continue to shout in an inflammatory way. The best known of these is Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war. It is unnecessary for me to discuss Johnson's unwise statements. I can quote a real authority, for Senator Bennett Clark, the Missouri Democrat, dealt quite fully with the assistant secretary's utterances—especially that in which Mr. Johnson said that "if the United States were not fully prepared for war, it would be overrun like Poland." Of that remark, Senator Clark had this to say, during the arms embargo debate in the senate:

"In my judgment, no more idiotic, moronic or unpatriotic remark ever has been made by a man in high public office . .

"This is the same Louis Johnson who has been flying around the country in an army airplane for the last several years, preaching the inevitability of war and the certainty of our being drawn in and drawing horrific pictures with grisly prophecies of our shores being invaded and our own land being laid waste."

But after Senator Clark had streamlined the assistant secretary of war, he proceeded to fall off into the deepest water of demagoguery by attacking President Roosevelt's selection of members of the war resources board. To make that eagle scream in its shrillest notes, Senator Clark described it as a "Morgan-duPont board," which, to anyone who knows the facts, is a rather silly statement.

With respect to the attack on Mr. Johnson, I only wish that Senator Clark had gone ahead with disclosures so that the long-continued row in the war department could have had an airing.

Johnson Reported Seeking Job of Secretary of War

It is no longer a secret in Washington that Mr. Johnson has been trying for months to get the job of secretary of war. He and Mr. Woodring do not get along, and have not for much of the time the assistant secretary has been on the job. The result has been continual friction, a handicapping of department policies and a general fear among army officers. They are afraid they will get tangled up in departmental politics and every officer knows if he guesses wrong, the chances of getting top flight assignments are nil.

As can readily be seen, such a situation in a policy-making agency of government certainly does the nation no good. It is said that President Roosevelt sees Assistant Secretary Johnson more frequently than he confers with Mr. Woodring, the head of the department. Whether that is true or not, it is a fact that the President has done nothing at all to settle the long-standing row.

Getting back to the senate debate, attention ought to be turned momentarily to the defeat of the motion to separate the arms embargo question from that involved in the "cash and carry" sections of the bill. Senator Tobey, New Hampshire Republican, proposed that the bill be split up, because there was virtually an unanimous vote in prospect for a law that would let American business sell ordinary supplies to both sides of the European struggle, provided the buyers came here in their own ships, paid cash for their purchases and hauled them away in their own vessels.

Short shrift was made of that motion. It was licked by more than two to one. The reason: if the "cash and carry" section were disposed of, there would be so much less interest in the arms embargo repeal that its eventual defeat would be entirely possible.

Old Party Whip Is Used To Keep Followers in Line

Which brings us back to the subject of politics. It will be remembered that President Roosevelt called for an "adjournment of politics," during the dangerous period. No one made the open charge in debate, but there were plenty of senators who felt that the President exerted pressure to keep his own followers in line. The administration's leaders were quite well aware that a titanic struggle confronted them to obtain repeal of the arms embargo if it were cut loose from the "cash and carry" section. So the old party whip was brought into play.

But all of the changes that have taken place in the country's thought have had one reaction in Washington that is not obvious to those living outside of the capital city. I have reported to you before how the little clique that surrounds the President—extreme radicals and men with dreams who know how they will disappear if Democrats instead of New Dealers are in control—saw in the possibility of war an assurance of President Roosevelt's election to a third term. They were rubbing their hands and licking their chops because they saw themselves certain to continue in their jobs, exercising great power. The lack of enthusiasm for their plans has left them with nothing to do but mope and sulk. Their strategy has been blown up under their own noses. They do not know what to do about it.

The question that now confronts the country, from a political standpoint, is whether the European war will run six months or a year or six years. The answer to the question is vital to the politicians.

It is especially important to those who would "draft" Mr. Roosevelt to run for a third term, and I think it is being studied with great care by such men as Postmaster General Farley and Vice President Garner. It is being studied with equal care by Senators Taft of Ohio, and Vandenberg of Michigan, each of whom has a whole flock of Presidential bees swarming inside of his Republican bonnet.

Farley Has Party Control Locked Up in His Own Safe

It has been noted, repeatedly, how the arms embargo debate has found many of the anti-administration Democrats aligned with the President, favoring repeal. Most of the senators whom President Roosevelt sought to "purge" from the Democratic party believe with the Chief Executive that the embargo ought to be repealed. Some few of the ardent Roosevelt supporters are standing against repeal. The interesting fact is that the intra-party row, among the Democrats, has had no effect upon the stand taken by the party members in the embargo controversy. And, thus, there has been considerable speculation whether there is to be a healing of the wounds. I think there will not be. The differences seem too deeply seated.

However, that may be, it can be said now that "Big Jim" Farley, who is chairman of the New York State Democratic committee in addition to being chairman of the National Democratic committee, has control of the party locked up in his own safe. If he chooses to align himself with the Garner-Harrison group, Mr. Roosevelt and his followers are through, washed up. If he decides to support Mr. Roosevelt again, the anti-Roosevelt Democrats will be tossed about like a straw in a whirlwind. It appears to this observer as of this time that the swing of public sentiment definitely against anything in the nature of American participation in the European war probably will mean a Farley swing to the Garner-Harrison side of the line.

SATURDAY NIGHT MEAT PIE
See Recipes Below.

Hurry-Up Meals

What a feeling of satisfaction it creates to be able to confront the family with an attractive and substantial meal, even after a long afternoon of shopping or of bridge. It takes a bit of planning to accomplish that!

A selection of "Hurry-Up-Menus," planned to economize on time, without sacrificing quality, is the answer to that problem. Choose foods which can be prepared for cooking several hours in advance. A casserole dish requiring little cooking is a wise selection for the main dish of your meal; or, if you like, plan a broiler dinner or "grill" which can be cooked in little more time than it takes to set the table.

Appetite teasing meals, and meals that can be put together in only a few minutes' time, can be built around these popular and satisfying main dishes. In most instances all that's required to complete them is bread, a beverage, and a simple fresh fruit dessert.

Hasty Oven Baked Beans.
(Serves 6)

1 large can baked beans
¼ pound bacon
¼ cup light brown sugar
2 tablespoons tomato catsup

Pour ½ can of baked beans in greased baking casserole. Dice ⅔ slices bacon and sprinkle over the beans. Add catsup, and then cover with remainder of baked beans. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and top with bacon strips. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 30 minutes. Serve at once.

Hasty Noodles.
(Serves 6)

1 package noodles
8 slices bacon
2 eggs (well beaten)
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook the noodles in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain, and place in a slow oven to keep warm. Pan fry the bacon until crisp, and remove from drippings, and cut into small pieces. Drain off all but two tablespoons of the bacon fat, then place the bacon and noodles in the frying pan. Add well-beaten eggs and seasoning, and cook, folding gently, over a low fire for about five minutes, or until the eggs are set. Serve very hot. A crisp salad makes an excellent accompaniment for this meal.

Corn and Mushroom Omelet.
(Serves 6)

1 No. 2 can corn
3 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons diced green pepper
1 can button mushrooms
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons butter

Drain the corn. Separate eggs. Add salt to egg yolks and beat until very thick. Add baking powder to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites into the egg yolk mixture. Add corn and green pepper and mix lightly. Pour into a hot buttered frying pan and cook slowly until omelet is browned and thoroughly cooked through. Dry lightly in warm oven (300 degrees). Drain mushrooms and dredge with flour. Saute in melted butter. Pour mushrooms over the omelet, fold, and place on hot platter. Serve immediately.

Mixed Grill.
(Serves 5)

¼ pound sliced bacon
1 pound pork sausages
5 fresh tomatoes
1 No. 2 can French lima beans
1 No. 2 can pineapple rings

Broil bacon and sausages. Hollow out tomatoes and fill with French lima beans. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake until tomato shells are tender but will still hold their shape. Fry pineapple rings in butter. Serve as mixed grill and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

All-in-One Dinner.
(Serves 6)

6 link sausages
1 large onion (chopped fine)
2 tablespoons green pepper (minced)
½ pound ground beef
½ pound ground pork
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 No. 2 can kidney beans
½ cup uncooked rice
½ cup hot water
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Brown the sausages in a heavy frying pan. Remove, and drain off all but ¼ cup of the fat. Saute the onion and the green pepper in the fat. Then add the ground meat and cook until brown. Add remaining ingredients, cover, and cook until the rice is tender (about 35 minutes). During the last 15 minutes, reheat the sausages on top of the mixture. Serve with a green salad.

Grilled Ham Sandwiches.

Toast slices of bread and place thin slices of ham on untoasted side of bread. Cover with cheese slices and spread with prepared mustard. Top with slices of fresh tomato and grill under broiler until cheese melts. Serve with watercress and stuffed olives.

Saturday Night Meat Pie.

4 tablespoons onion (minced)
1 pound ground beef
1 can condensed tomato soup
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Pastry for 2-crust pie
Butter (melted)

Cook the onions in a little butter until soft. Add the ground beef and cook until barely brown. Blend in the soup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and mix. Line pie pan with rich pastry, rolled to ⅛-inch thickness. Moisten the edges of the crust with cold water. Fill the pie shell with the meat mixture. Cover with the top crust, prick top, brush with melted butter, and bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour, or bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 15 minutes, then decrease heat to 350 degrees and bake 15 minutes longer.

Corner Shields Are Big Help in Cleaning Rooms

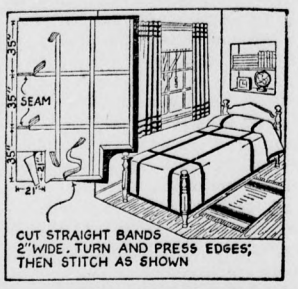

Hard-to-clean corners can be conquered for the housewife through installation of supple metal shields which, when pushed into the angle will eliminate the business of keeping corners free of dirt and dust.

Especially suitable for the corners of shelves, the shields can be painted over to escape notice. No nails or screws are necessary for installation, as the shields contain metal teeth which clamp to the surface and secure it firmly.

Red Trim, Please, On Boy's Bedspread

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"STURDY and masculine." Also, "Red trimmings, please." That was the order for the bedspread in the combination work-and-play room of a 10-year-old lad. Blue and tan predominated in the room. The clever mother made curtains for the rather large square window; using lunch cloths in these colors—one cloth making a pair of curtains.

Blue denim with red gingham bands is suggested for the spread. The diagram may be used as a guide for cutting and making a spread of any 36-inch material for a bed of any width. The amount of material needed will be three times the full width of the finished spread, plus two inches. Two seams covered by bands run straight across the width of the spread. The two lengthwise bands may be close together or far apart according to the width of the bed. The corners at the foot are cut out as shown. The edges are then pressed to the right side and bands stitched over them.

What's in a Name?

IN CHINA, the more distinguished a man is, the shorter is his title. One might wonder how Mr. Burionagonatotorecagageazcoecha (it's his real surname, believe it or not) would rate in that far-off land. But then Mr. Burionagonatotore—etc., etc., is not a Chinaman, but a Spaniard of Madrid. Wonder what he was called for short at school.

Mr. Konstantinow Georgin Kallochrictianakis, a Greek immigrant of Spokane, Wash., found the burden unbearable, so he recently obtained permission to change his name to Gus Elf. Well, that lightens the load considerably.

Patterns Practical As Well as Smart

NO. 1840. Do you take a large size? Then the beautifully long-line dress (1840) is one that you should make up right away. With slenderizing panels, it has the high-bosomed, narrow-hipped effect most becoming to you. It's smart for afternoon wear and every day, too. Make it of wool broadcloth, wool crepe or faille, with the vestee in contrast, or choose crepe-satin, using the crepe side for the dress and the satin for the vestee—a new and smart combination.

With Slight Military Air.

No. 1839. For juniors, the basque-waisted frock with flaring skirt (1839) is ideal to wear to school and to business. The little-boy collar enables you to keep it always fresh and new-looking, and it's such an easy style to make. This tailors beautifully in wool plaid, challis, velveteen or wool crepe.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Prologue to Love

By MARTHA OSTENSO

THE STORY THUS FAR

Lovely, independent Autumn Dean, returning home to British Columbia from abroad without her father's knowledge, stops at the home of Hector Cardigan, an old family friend. He tells her that she should not have come home, that things have changed. Arriving home at the "Castle of the Norns," she is greeted lovingly by her father, Jarvis Dean, who gives her to understand that she is welcome—for a short visit. Her mother, former belle named Millicent Odell, has been dead for years. Autumn cannot understand her father's attitude, though gives him to understand that she is home for good. Her father gives a welcoming dance at the castle. Autumn meets Florian Parr, dashing, well-educated young man of the countryside. Late in the evening Autumn leaves the dance, rides horseback to the neighboring ranch where she meets Bruce Landor, friend and champion of her childhood days. He takes her to see his mother, an invalid. His father is dead, thought to have killed himself. As soon as his mother sees Autumn she commands Bruce to take her away, that death follows in the wake of the Odells. Autumn is both saddened and perplexed. Bruce, apologetic, can offer no reason for his mother's attitude. Autumn calls again on Hector Cardigan—this time to find out the reason for Mrs. Landor's outburst. From his conversation she inferred that Geoffrey Landor killed himself because he loved Millicent Dean, her mother. Meanwhile, Bruce Landor rides to the spot where his father's body was found years before. There he meets Autumn. Autumn and he talk of their families. They agree that her mother and his father loved each other deeply—and that their love is the cause of present antagonism. Florian Parr, at the castle for dinner, proposes to Autumn. She refuses him. The next day Autumn meets Bruce in a herder's cabin. There they declare their love for each other, and determine to stand together against everyone who might come between them. Autumn tells her father that she is going to marry Bruce. She is aghast to see his reaction, and is agonized to hear him whisper that Geoffrey Landor did not take his own life. He tells her the story. Millicent, his wife, and Geoffrey Landor had fallen in love with each other.

Autumn heard Jarvis' hands moving slowly up and down the arms of the chair.

"I must have gone a little mad then," he went on after a pause. "There was no use in my trying to hold her. I knew that. She was gone already, you see. But I couldn't let her go. I hoped that I might do something to win her back, perhaps. The weeks went by, but I soon knew it was hopeless. She was kindness itself to me, but she would forget sometimes and go about the house like one in a dream. She would sit with me throughout a whole evening and never speak a word. I became bold one day and went over to see Jane Landor when Geoffrey was in town. I asked her if she knew what was going on between Millicent and her husband. She denied that it was so, but I knew she was fully aware of it. She was too proud to admit it. I was a little unreasonable, I guess. I told her what I thought of a woman who could not keep her husband to herself. She told me to go home and look after my wife. That was the last time I spoke to Jane Landor, except for politeness when we met in public."

His voice had become very low now, but strangely controlled.

"Spring came, and I knew Millicent and Geoffrey were having rendezvous, but there was not a breath of scandal. I said nothing at first. I said nothing until I could stand it no longer. Then I—I gave orders. I made Millicent a prisoner in her own house. I forbade her going anywhere beyond the grounds unless I went with her. Perhaps I was foolish in that. At any rate, I kept them apart. Millicent didn't protest. If this had been one of her silly flirtations, you see, she would have died rather than give in to me. But it wasn't. This was real to her—and she didn't utter a word of protest. She obeyed me to the letter. Presently I heard that Geoffrey was drinking heavily and neglecting his work. The gossip of that was on every tongue. When he was found—shot to death by his own gun—it was easy enough to suppose that it was either suicide—or accident."

Autumn gathered her hands together tightly about her knees.

"I had gone up north to look at some wolf traps I had set the day before. I had told no one I was going there, for I wished to be alone in the woods and think over my problem. It was early summer and I went on foot. I carried a fowling-piece with me in the hope that I might raise a partridge along the way. Millicent was very fond of the breast of partridge. It was still early afternoon when I went out—along the way we go to Absolom's camp—but down the gully you wanted to follow that morning after you came home. At the farther end of the birches I flushed a couple of partridges and brought them down. I went on and inspected the traps I had set. I found them empty and returned the same way I had come. As I entered the birches, I came upon a brood of partridge chicks that kept running before me and hiding under leaves and keeping the woods alive with their ceaseless chirping. I realized then that they were the brood that belonged to the brace of birds I had bagged only an hour before. I was sorry for them, I remember, even then."

He paused for a long time, and a sigh of unutterable weariness seemed to pass all through his body. Autumn turned slightly and clung to his knees.

"It was there that Geoffrey Landor rode down upon me," Jarvis said at last. "He had evidently been drinking. I don't know what it was that brought him down there just then. He couldn't have known that I was there. No one knew. He seemed surprised at first, and looked at me as if he did not know me. Then he got down from his horse and came to where I was standing. He confronted me with an insolance that put me beside myself. I shall hear that taunting laugh of his to my dying day—and into eternity. I tried to quiet him, knowing that he had been drinking, but it only angered him the more. When I turned to go away from him, he stepped suddenly in front of me and whipped out his revolver. He told me he could not go on living without Millicent—that it had to be either him or me. It took me a minute or so to understand what he meant. He was actually challenging me to a duel. He looked magnificent as a god as he stood there instructing me with cool arrogance what I must do. Even then I did not believe that he meant to go through with it. To me it seemed an insane thing, even in those days. Then he called me something—it was an epithet that not only involved my own honor but Millicent's as well—and I struck him. I struck him with all my might. I wanted to kill him. He lifted his hand quickly—the one with the revolver in it—probably to guard against the blow—perhaps to kill me. I do not know what was in his mind. I saw him fall face downwards—and I heard his gun explode at the same instant—a sort of muffled sound. I watched him then, and waited for him to get up. But he didn't rise. I kneeled and turned him over. Geoffrey Landor was dead."

Autumn's burning eyes were buried against his knees, but no tears came. The image behind her lids seemed to have seared away all emotion.

"What I did immediately after that I do not know," Jarvis continued. "My memory there is a blank. I think I dragged his body to the water to revive him if possible. When I saw he was past all help, I left him in the shallow water, face downstream at the sound of the shot. I looked around me and wondered what I should do. And in the stillness came only the chirping of the partridge chicks. I turned and ran out of the gully. When I reached the open, on the top of the hill there where the trail turns eastward to the sheep camp, I sat down and thought of what I must do. I became very calm. I soon knew there was but one thing I could do. If I had gone to the authorities and told my story—just as it all had come about—I would probably not have been believed. I wouldn't have minded that, although life meant much more to me then than it does now. What I did not want was that the whole story involving Millicent should be brought to light. So far as anyone knew, Millicent and I were as happy together as we had always been. For her sake as much as for my own, I think, I resolved to say nothing about it to anyone. I came back home. Late that night, I saddled my horse and left word that I was riding down to Absolom's camp. Something drew me back to the spot where I had last seen Geoffrey alive. I think I expected to find him alive still. I don't know. I rode as far as the entrance to the gully and halted to listen for some sound that might reassure me. As I stood and listened, I heard nothing but the mad chirping of the partridge chicks. I have never gone back there since. The next day, one of his own men found Geoffrey's body where I had left it. I went to Millicent that night and told her that I was sorry. She had been weeping. I told her exactly what had happened. She did not look at me. She said, 'Your secret is safe with me, Jarvis.' Before the end of the summer she died of a fever."

His voice was emotionless now as the stark tale came to an end. He leaned forward slightly and clasped his hands.

"Now you know why I did not want you to come back here," he said simply. "I did not want you to come back—to this."

"You have nothing to fear, Da," Autumn murmured.

"Nothing to fear? God in heaven! Geoffrey Landor destroyed my life. It was not enough for him that he robbed me of my wife's love. He laid upon me the responsibility of his own death. I have never recovered from that, Autumn. I have borne it all these years in secret. And now you tell me you want to marry the son of the man. It will kill me."

As though she were suddenly invested with a strength not her own, Autumn got to her feet and smiled down at Jarvis as she extended her hands.

"Come, Da," she said softly, "it must be as though it has never happened. We shall never speak of it again."

He looked up at her and smiled in whimsical sadness. "My poor little Autumn," he said, and the hand that had lain inert on the arm of the chair brushed across the stricken eyes, "my poor little Autumn—there seems no end."

She lifted her head proudly. "You are wrong," she said. "There is an end—even to this." Her breath caught her, in spite of herself, like a barb in the throat. "I must have been mad tonight—but I didn't know."

She threw her arms fiercely about him, all the pride and loyalty of her blood in the embrace. He patted her hand, and his lips moved without a sound.

Presently they got up together and walked in silence out of the room, Autumn's arm about her father, his hand leaning heavily on her shoulder.

CHAPTER VI

Throughout the interminable night Autumn knelt at her window in the darkness, watching the stars wheel across the sensuous velvet of a sky lately cleared of rain, until at last the blood red sail of a waning moon stood in the west, and she knew it was only a brief hour or so before dawn. Cramped with chill, she crept back into bed. In the fitful sleep that came to her, she dreamt that Bruce Landor was dead, and that somehow she had caused his death. She awoke to a thin, gray daylight, to find that her face was wet with tears. In the reality of her dream, she turned over on her pillow and gave herself up to despondent weeping.

Later at their early breakfast table, which Hannah had made lovely with a centerpiece of daisies and cowslips on a yellow linen cloth, Autumn met her father with a mood as fresh and bright as Hannah's flowers. She had dressed in a skirt and jacket of bright blue wool, with a gay ruffled blouse of sheer batiste, a costume which had once before drawn from Jarvis one of his rare expressions of pleasure.

"I'm all ready to leave for Kelowna, Da," she said. "I do wish you were going along. It would do you heaps of good."

He looked at her with surprise. "I didn't think you were going till this afternoon," he said.

"I've changed my mind," she replied.

Hannah brought in the steaming cereal. As the old woman busied herself about the table, Autumn stole a glance at her father. It was apparent that he had had a sleepless night. Haggard lines underscored his eyes, and his stern mouth was set in a straight line of pain. But his manner betrayed nothing of what he had suffered during the night.

He glanced up with a heavy frown at Hannah.

"Did you remember to salt the oatmeal this morning?" he asked with elaborate severity.

Hannah glanced at him disdainfully. "Salt causes hardening of the arteries," she retorted. "There's plenty in yon porridge for you, sir."

Autumn laughed, and Jarvis pretended to heave a deep, patient sigh. The meal progressed with small talk of things about the ranch, of the children of Tom Willmar, the foreman, of the likelihood of a good fruit and hay crop. If Autumn had never before been grateful for the presence of old Hannah, she gave silent thanks now to that homely, faithful body who sat at table with them, unconsciously helping to tide them over a painfully difficult hour.

The meal finished, Autumn prepared at once to leave for Kelowna. She did not again urge Jarvis to accompany her, but before she got into her car she threw her arms about his neck and clung to him for a long moment without a word.

"No doldrums now, Daddy," she whispered.

He smiled at her, a grim, twisted smile, and she slapped him mannishly on the shoulder and then was obliged to turn away as she saw the tears start to his bleak eyes.

"So long, darling!" she sang and jumped quickly into the car.

"Take care of yourself," he said huskily, "and don't drive too fast. Good-by—good-by!"

Unheedful of the Laird's warning, she drove with reckless speed over the winding road, shutting out from her senses the painful beauty of the morning, with its assailing colors and perfumes of wildflowers that carpeted hill and glen. Where the sun slanted across a smooth hillock, violets, buttercups, larkspur and blue-eyed grass would be shining under dew as though beneath a great glass dome, and if she glanced aside in a sweet, leafy dell, there would be lily-of-the-valley and iris and lady's-slipper. But these were not for her now, she thought bitterly, as she stared at the road that ran crazily before her, uncurling like a toy serpent of painted paper.

Where the trail branched southward to Kelowna, she swung her car to the left and followed the road to Kamloops. The morning was young and there would be plenty of time to run in upon Hector Cardigan before going on to the Parrs'.

Old Hector was at work among his flowers in front of the house as she drove up. She blew her horn and he lifted his head and looked at her.

"Well, well!" he greeted her as she came through the gate. "You're abroad early."

"I'm running away, Hector," she replied with a laugh.

He cast an anxious glance at her. There was no way of telling what notions these youngsters might take. Besides, the girl was an Odell.

"From whom—this time?" he enquired, half banteringly.

"From myself, of course," she stated. "Who else?"

Old Hector shook his head. "You'll not find that easy, my dear," he observed. "But come along into the house."

She ran before him up the steps, through the open doorway, and into the drawing room where all the shades were drawn to exclude the morning sun.

"Let's have light, Hector!" she cried and hurried from one window to another to lift the shades. "One would swear you were trying to hide something in this old house of yours. It's positively spooky!"

He watched her, a helpless expression in his eyes, then smiled faintly as she tossed her gloves and hat upon a chair and helped herself to a cigarette from a box on the table.

"There's little a man of my age has to hide from the world," he said slowly.

"But you keep that little very well hidden, don't you?" she countered, lighting her cigarette and tossing the match into the fireplace.

There was something in the girl's mood that made him apprehensive. He moved uneasily to his accustomed position with his back to the open fireplace and clasped his hands behind him as he looked down at her.

"One never knows how well a thing is hidden, my dear, until someone attempts to seek it out," he replied evasively.

Autumn looked about at the tapestry-hung walls, then flicked the ash from her cigarette.

"Nor how poorly it is hidden—until someone blunders upon it," she added.

He smiled and rocked back and forward on the balls of his feet. He wondered what the girl was getting at. "Quite so," he agreed, "quite so."

Autumn got suddenly to her feet and tossed her cigarette away. "What a romantic old fraud you are!" she said abruptly.

"Me? I have never thought of myself—"

"Hector," she interrupted him, "why didn't you tell me everything you knew when I came here to talk with you last week?"

He regarded her suspiciously. "Did I withhold something?" he asked her.

She eyed him narrowly. "I am asking you why," she replied.

Hector's look was a challenge. "I prefer to be my own judge, my dear, as to what I shall tell concerning other people—or concerning myself, for that matter," he said.

Autumn stepped close to him and laughed a little shrilly, he thought, a little bitterly. "Don't you get hoity-toity with little Autumn, now," she chided mockingly. "You can keep your old secrets. I know all that's worth knowing about them, anyhow."

Damn the girl's taunting mood, Hector thought to himself. She was her mother all over again. How often he had seen Millicent turn suddenly flippant when she wanted to conceal her true feelings, whether of disappointment over a trivial thing or of grief so deep that it broke her impetuous, wild heart.

"The gesture seems oddly familiar," he observed.

Autumn's anger flared suddenly. "It will become even more familiar, then," she retorted. "I have discovered who I am. From now on, I'm through with trying to be what I was never meant to be! It can't be done. I'm going to be myself, Hector Cardigan!" The old man's face had gone strangely pale. "Don't look startled, Hector. Your secrets are perfectly safe with me—just as Jarvis Dean's secrets. If men choose to fall in love and kill each other over a woman, it's no affair of mine. Let the tradition go on. It's the Basque bell, Hector, and nothing that you or I can ever do will ever stop it ringing!"

Hockey Day Held At Palo Alto

Girls from high schools of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties will attend the Hockey Sports day which is to be held at Stanford University, Saturday, Nov. 4.

Many girls who play in after school sports will attend the affair which will begin at 9:30 a. m. and the girls will be given demonstrations by experienced hockey players. Before the meeting ends at noon, the high school players hope to be able to play at least one quarter of hockey.

Church Group Is Sponsoring Dance

The Catholic Youth Organization of Campbell is sponsoring a dance to be held Saturday, Nov. 4, at St. Martin's hall in Burbank. The dance will be from 8:30 to 12 p. m. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the C. Y. O. for 25 cents.

The girls have organized a volley ball team and will play the first game Monday night, Oct. 30 against St. Leo's team. The game will take place in St. Joseph's gym in San Jose.

Japanes Club Plans Party

The Japanese club is now planning to sponsor a skating party at the San Jose roller rink. Roy Kawamoto and Bob Takata have charge of tickets. Further plans are to be made at the next meeting.

The choosing of an early date was suggested by the advisor, C. E. York. The funds are to be used for the two annual socials held by the club.

Yell Leaders to Sport New Jackets

Jackets will be provided for the Campbell high cheer leaders it was decided by the supreme council at their meeting on Oct. 25.

The jackets will be patterned after those of San Jose State college and styled in such a way that it will be possible for future yell leaders to wear them. The material of the jackets is to be satin in the school colors and the cost of $5.50 each will be paid out of the student body fund.

Dunlaps Hosts At Barn Dance

The Percy Dunlaps and Miss Patricia Shumway entertained at a Halfowe'en barn dance Friday evening at their Larkin Valley home near Watsonville.

Those attending from Campbell were the Misses Maurine Weeks and Mildred McVea, Mrs. Gagliasso and daughter, and Mr. Beverly Alderson.

Paradiso Council Met Recently

El Paradiso Council held regular session together with a study group hour Friday morning, Oct. 20 at the home of Mrs. C. C. Cox in Saratoga. Mrs. David L. Hibbs talked to the study group about exceptional children. During the business meeting Mrs. H. H. Bull of Sunnyvale was introduced as the new sixth vice president.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 10 at 9:30 a. m. at Mrs. Cox's. The subject will be "Parlimentary Law."

Hi-Y Meeting Held Tuesday

At the regular Hi-Y meeting held at the home of Thomas Armstrong Tuesday, Oct. 31, the members held a short business meeting and then played basketball and football. After the games refreshments were served.

P.-T. A. Group Met Wednesday

The November meeting of the Campbell Union High School P.-T. A. was held in the little theater of the school, Wednesday, Nov. 1, with Mrs. H. F. Rediker presiding, and Mrs. Roy Packer, chairman of the day.

During the business meeting, which followed the patriotic demonstration, plans were laid for the first evening card party of the year which is to be held in the school gymnasium on Nov. 27. A series of afternoon card parties were also planned, dates to be announced later.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Packer introduced three students from the glee club of the school, under the direction of C. P. Klassen, who sang two duets with piano accompaniment.

The speaker of the afternoon was D. T. Jenkins, san Jose attorney, whose topic was "American Democracy," which he compared favorably with the forms of European governments now at war. He stressed the importance of the ideals taught by the schools in molding the younger generation's mind to democracy, which, after all, he said, is the ideal way of life.

The next meeting of the unit will be the annual Christmas festival held the evening of Dec. 20.

Miss Maurine Weeks spent the week-end with the Percy Dunlaps in Larkin Valley, Watsonville.

There will be no meeting of the Tawasi group, Camp Fire Girls, this evening, as most members are planning to attend the P.-T. A.-sponsored play, "Happy Ending," which is being repeated at the high school auditorium.

BE NOT MISLED

DO YOU not know our colonial forefathers fought the war of Independence against the private Bank of England, who insisted the colonies use their privately owned money. The colonies then retained the control of their money as the charter from England granted. The colonies vested their rights in the Constitution.

Article 1, Section 8, Part 5, "Congress shall have the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof."

DO YOU not know this private Bank of England then established the first Bank of North America; adding more banks, extending their power until the banking act of 1935 gave Wall street dictatorial power over all our banking system.

DO YOU not know that our privately owned Federal Reserve Banking system obtains our newly issued money at 27 cents for $1,000 newly printed bills or $300,000 for $1 billion in newly printed bills.

DO YOU not know that the government must pay $20.00 to $25.00 interest annually for these same 27 cent bills.

DO YOU not know the people are paying compound interest on all government money borrowed from the banks amounting to $125.00 per year for every man, woman and child in America.

Our civil war has been paid many times over in compound interest. The soldier's bonus, including all other government borrowed money is thusly paid at excessive, invisible interest.

DO YOU not know the private Federal Reserve Banks receive a billion dollars in bills for $300,000, then borrow another billion using the first billion as collateral—this process is repeated with government loans as is done all through their banking system.

DO YOU not know the privately owned Federal Reserve banking system can extend and recall credit at their will, causing depressions.

DO YOU not know the banks can cause inflation and deflation by writing (promise to pay) fountain pen money.

DO YOU not know the people do not own one single share of stock in the Federal Reserve banking system.

DO YOU not know in voting against Proposition No. 1 you are voting against the Constitution and all our forefathers have fought for.

LET'S Recapitulate—If our Federal Reserve banking system can use our newly printed money they receive for nothing and operate a system using the people as collateral, why then cannot the people use their own collateral and issue new warrants to those over 50 years, thus stimulating our now stagnant monetary system? This we propose to do by establishing a people's bank owned for the benefit of the people, eliminating the interest, invisible taxes and private control of our monetary system.

C.U.H.S. NEWS LETTER

WRITTEN AND EDITED BY STUDENTS OF CAMPBELL UNION HIGH SCHOOL

"Huck Finn" Comes to Campbell In Senior Play

"Huckleberry Finn," widely known play by Mark Twain, will be presented on Dec. 15, in the auditorium of the Campbell Union High school. The adaptation is by Roy Lewis with Dean R. Chamberlin directing.

After a series of tryouts held Oct. 25-27, the following seniors were chosen to take part in this hilariously entertaining performance: Aunt Polly (Mariah Wilson) Nedra Lawrence; her sister, Ruth Watson, Betty York; their young niece, Mary Jane, Phyllis Sidensol; Ruth's lover, Fred Raymond, Jay Keesling; Watsons' colored maid, Melba White, Lois Bohnett; deaconess of the church, Clara Woppinger, Billie Wasson; her sister, Amy Woppinger, Alice Modry; Huck Finn, Jim Strimpel; his father, John Finn, Eugene Green; and Tom Sawyer, Clyde Shaw.

Everyone who attends is assured of having a delightful evening, one which will never be forgotten.

COLLECTOR

"Wow! there's a letter on the floor. I'd better get it," cries Charlotte Robertson, one of Campbell high's best letter collectors.

Charlotte has been collecting letters for over two years. Among her collection are two letters of considerable interest.

One has traveled all over the Japanese Islands in quest of a traveling salesman. The letter never caught up with the salesman and was finally sent back to the company with over 15 cancellations on it.

Another letter took ten years to make a trip to Texas and back. According to Charlotte the letter got lost on the way and by the time it was returned to the company who sent it, the famous fire and earthquake of 1906 had partly demolished the company's offices and they had moved.

Hockey Teams Schedule Tilts With L. G. High

Miss Dorothy Baird, physical education teacher of Los Gatos High school, will bring two hockey teams to play against our Red, Gold, and Blue teams on Thursday, Nov. 9. The captains of our teams are Jewell Abbott, Viola Coonradt and Carolyn Roberts. Refreshments will be served for the girls after the games.

P.-T. A. Benefit Play Tonight

A grand play, good acting and a background of beauty made up the high school P.-T. A. play, "Happy Ending."

Due to popular demand "Happy Ending" will be shown again on Nov. 2. Any one who misses this play will be doing an injustice to himself and Campbell high school.

The proceeds of the play are to be put into a fund to buy lights for the high school baseball diamond. If this project is carried out Campbell will have one of the few lighted diamonds in the district south of San Francisco.

It is a worthwhile plan and deserves your support.

Fire Chief Pleased With High Drill

Edward Genasci, chief of the Campbell fire department, was pleased with the results of the fire drill which was held Monday afternoon, Oct. 30.

He said, "The students vacated the building quickly and orderly and seemed to know exactly where to go. It was like unfolding the pages of a book."

In suggesting slight improvements for future drills, Mr. Genasci said that the students should have in mind more than one exit because the usual one might be involved in the fire. He also advised that they get away from the building but to avoid blocking road entrances which fire apparatus would use.

Epworth Juniors Hold Spook Party

The junior group of the Epworth League held a party at the church on Friday night, Oct. 27, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Redson, group councilors, were in charge.

On the program committee were Carol Weeks, chairman; Clarence McCorkle, Ruby Kuykendall, Ed Blackburn, and Rolan McFall.

Cardinals to Play Mt. View Friday

The Campbell eleven will tangle with the Mt. View Eagles Friday afternoon at Campbell.

The game this Friday will be played with an eye to the future, with the Cardinals trying out future ball players. The game will start with veterans who will alternate with next years material.

Mt. View is ranked only one notch below Washington in the league ladder. Last Fridays game showed that Campbell had the stuff football players are made of and we expect our team to put up a real fight this Friday. There are a good many freshmen, sophomores and juniors on the team this year who will show up on the gridiron next year.

Campbell will probably start the following linemen: Carvelho, R. E., Strimpel, R. T., Warning, R. G., Drenon, C., Packer, L. E., Presto, L. T., Robertson, L. G.

Coach Caseleggio has divided the backfield into two complete units. The first is made up of the veterans with the exception of DeSal. They are Libhardt, Conneto, De Sal and Meeks.

The second unit is made up entirely of freshmen and sophomores and consists of Jacobsen, Guttormsen, Harris, Hartley, Mossholder, Yeager, Speciale and Silva.

Rally Held Before Game

A rally was held on Friday, Oct. 27, before the football game between Campbell and Gilroy high.

The program began with the locomotive yell which was followed by the Skyrocket, the Echo, Give 'em the axe, Wash 'em out, and the rhythm yell.

The speakers from the team were Don Packer, Loren Smith, Glen Guttormsen, Bob Yeager, John Ban, and Bob Libhardt.

Packer, the captain, said that we must think of each game as a new opportunity and put aside the past failures. He urged the students to get behind the team and show some school spirit.

Yeager, a new student from San Jose, stated that with hard work and cooperation Campbell would make a good showing.

The cheer leaders were Lois Bohnett, Ethel Mae Van Arsdale, Byron Tonasci and Leonard Baptist.

Future Farmers At Salinas Convent'n

The Future Farmers officers made a trip to Salinas yesterday to attend a mass convention of all F. F. A. officers from the various regions.

Campbell farmer officers are, Eddie Carvelho, president; Renso Orsi, vice president; Frank Johnson, secretary; Donald Warning, treasurer; Elwyn Meeks, reporter; Bud Weeks, "watch dog;" Charles Prestogiacomo, recreational director.

Mr. C. E. York, adviser, was in charge of the group.

Band Cheers On Campbell High Cardinals

The Campbell high band added a touch of real school spirit when the Gilroy Mustangs and the Campbell Cardinals clashed here last Friday. It inspired the team, as well as the students.

The members of the band are: Lee Gerrans, Andrew Livacich, Clarence McCorkle, Grady McCorkle, Dan Morgan, Jerry Mossholder, Joe Nishimura, Renso Orsi, Donald Rice, Liberata Ruscigno, Manuel Santos, Bill Samford, Bob Samford, Duane Smith, Anthony Triana, Justin Triana, Harvey Wood, Roy Van Gorkham, Joe Turturici, Bob Morra, Fred Jones, Bob Aldrich, Nadine Smith, Malcolm Kendall, Alfred Martin, Bob Keesling, and Jay Keesling, with A. A. Thielke directing.

The band will play at the remaining games of the season.

Highway Patrol Busy Squad

The Junior Highway Patrol members of Campbell Union high school are the busiest students at school. The most important of its duties is to protect the students when they are crossing the busy intersection of Campbell avenue and Winchester road. All four officers on duty have stop signs and the lieutenant has a whistle with which he directs traffic. Another one of their duties is to usher at the auditorium when there is a play or graduation, etc. They collect tickets and do other types of work at football games.

There are five officers in the highway patrol, they are, a captain, an assistant captain, three lientenants, 12 officers and four relief men. Each of these officers gets one fourth of a credit for a years work. They are going to have rain coats and hats for rainy days, and six pointed stars which will be worn at all times if they are on or off duty.

Ralph Noddin is the advisor, and Willard Van Dyke and the teachers are all behind the patrol.

Epworth League

The Epworth League held a fellowship at the home of Marilyn Toy, Sunday, Oct. 29. Twenty-six of the members of the senior group attended.

Various games were played and refreshments were served. The refreshments and decorations were carried out in the Hallowe'en motif and the fellowship was one of the most enjoyable yet held.

Locals' Late Rally Fails; Score 6 - 0

By Jim Strimpel

Last Friday afternoon a spirited bunch of Campbell high gridders went out on the field underdogs to the highly favored Gilroy Mustangs, and before the game was over, they had outplayed and outspirited the visitors, only to lose 6 to 0, because of a handful of bad breaks and fumbles.

In the beginning of the first quarter, George Silva, Campbell safety man, decided to let the kickoff roll over the goal line, but the ball took an awkward bounce and hit him in the leg, and the Mustangs recovered on the 10 yard line and after being held to no gain for three downs managed to put over a score. The Cardinals proved themselves to be the superior team during the rest of the game because the Mustangs did not get any closer to the Campbell goal than the 20 yard marker.

Campbell came closer to scoring in the fourth quarter than in any other period, as Bob Yaeger, with the help of stalwart Campbell linemen streaked down the sidelines for 44 yards in four trys. The ball ended up on the Gilroy five yard marker and bad breaks in the form of a penalty and a fumble, snuffed out the try for a score.

A lot of credit should be given to the Campbell backfield and the Campbell linemen for their blocking and plunging, and if the fellows work as hard for the Mt. View and the Los Gatos games as they did in this last tussle, there is no question as to who the victor will be.

Camera Day Well Supported

"Click" went the camera shutter. Too bad for you fellow, but he got that pose. Some of you are hoping those "snaps" taken Friday, Oct. 27, don't turn out but just remember how you laughed over last years pictures.

The purpose of Camera Day is to obtain material for the snapshot pages of the yearbook, the Oriole.

Some very amusing shots were taken during the gym period and everyone is eagerly anticipating their development.

Convention Held For Valley Girls

A federation of the high school girls of the bay counties was held at the Girls High school in San Francisco, Saturday, Oct. 28.

Representatives from 73 schools attended this meeting. The representatives consisted of the dean or advisor, the president of the Girls' league and one other officer. Miss Howes, Mrs. Runge, Jeannette Abbott and Carolyn Roberts served as the school representatives.

A round table discussion was held for the girls in the school auditorium and one for the advisors was held in the library. The purpose of these round tables was to discuss the problems of high school girls.

Immediately after luncheon which was held in the Girls High school cafeteria, the group attended the fair.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Allies Counter Nazi Air Might With Turkish Diplomatic Coup; Italy Seeks Balkan Supremacy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR AT SEA

Will Nazi air might outpoint Britain's battlewagons?

THE WAR: Diplomacy

In early 1938 Germany's conservative Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg married blonde Erika Gruhn, a carpenter's daughter whom other Nazi officers termed "socially impossible." This month Erika Gruhn felt the news spotlight again in a British "white paper" by Sir Nevile Henderson, pre-war ambassador to Germany. Wrote he to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax:

"I drew your lordship's attention (in 1938) to the far-reaching and unfortunate results of the Blomberg marriage. I am more than ever convinced of the major disaster which that—in itself—minor incident involved, owing to the consequent elimination from Herr Hitler's entourage of the more moderate of his advisers, such as von Blomberg . . ."

VON BLOMBERG
His wife's war?

Recalled by diplomats was the general army shakeup that followed, in which Baron Konstantin von Neurath lost control of German foreign policy, and pro-war advisors fastened themselves to Hitler. It made a pretty news story: Is a woman the cause of Europe's war?

At Sea

In 1919 the proud but beaten German navy scuttled 72 warships in Scapa Flow (see map) rather than lose them to the allies. In the war of 1939, Germany remembered Scapa Flow. Day after Nazi raiders had bombed the Firth of Forth naval yard at Edinburgh, long-range airships again set out (probably from Wilhelmshaven) and unleashed the full fury of Herr Hitler's air might against Scapa Flow. Five times in four hours they struck, damaging the old Iron Duke and giving Britishers a bad case of jitters. Next day press and parliament railled at Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for sloppy defense work. The cries grew stronger when Chamberlain revealed the Royal Oak had also been sunk at Scapa Flow by a daring U-boat.

But Britain was not idle in this battle of airship vs. warship; she was merely less communicative than the Nazis, who boasted of their conquests. Next day Hollanders reported the Emden naval base had been bombed, and possibly Wilhelmshaven. Both Danish and Norwegian fishermen scurried for cover when the foes clashed somewhere west of Skagerrak. But the sum total of war at sea, which far overshadows the western front, is that Nazi air might is humbling the supposedly invincible British navy.

(U. S. ships got tangled in the war zone. The liner President Harding was buffeted by stormy weather off the Irish coast and had to seek help from home. The freighter Independence Hall picked up 300 torpedo victims from the City of Mandalay.)

Western Front

Whether by choice or convenience, French-British troops began fighting a defensive war whose principal feature was "strategic retreat." On the 100-mile northern flank of the western front, Nazidom's fighting men opened a vicious offensive which drove allied troops back to their main line. Paris reported one part of this drive, on the Moselle and before Saarbrueken, had cost the Germans 5,000 casualties in two days. The French were apparently content to dig in, letting Germany pay the cost of offensive warfare. But they were also waiting for a clearer definition of Russia's intentions (see THE NEUTRALS). Meanwhile reports persisted that the 20 German divisions massed on the Belgian-Netherlands frontier were not there to enjoy the scenery. The burning question: Will 1914's route of invasion be used again?

THE NEUTRALS: Search for Security

From Scandinavia down through the Balkans to Turkey, diplomats scurried madly after an elusive quantity called security. The reason was Russia, whose grisly head had been shoved into eastern Europe the moment Adolf Hitler opened the door. Although Moscow shipped 17½ tons of gold to Berlin (presumably Polish gold), and although German engineers were busy supervising the Soviet's new five-year plan, the happy wedding of Communism and Naziism seemed to have cost both principals a lot of friends:

Balkans. Russian-Turkish talks in Moscow broke down and Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu left for Istanbul, presumably refusing (1) to close the strategic Dardanelles to all but Russian warships and thus imperil the allies' chances to aid Rumania; (2) to permit Russo-German domination of a Balkan neutral bloc; (3) to recognize the Polish partition, and (4) to permit expansion of Bulgaria and Russia at Rumania's expense. Next day Turkish friendship with the allies was cemented by mutual assistance pacts whereby France, Britain and Turkey agreed to protect the eastern Mediterranean. Meanwhile Turkish troops rushed to northern frontiers.

Commented irked Germany, which promptly snuggled closer to Russia: "It can be taken for certain that other states of the Balkan entente will see in Turkey's attitude a renunciation of the preservation of neutrality which is one of the most important aims of the Balkan states."

But Berlin could not be sure. There was every indication that Italy, which fears a Russian-inspired pan-Slavic movement in the Balkans, would start collaborating with Turkey to preserve the Balkan status quo. Moreover the Italians knew their valued Dodecanese islands off Turkey's coast would be gone the instant Il Duce teamed up with Hitler against the allies.

More than ever, little Turkey held the balance of European power.

Baltic. Fearing that Finland might meet the fate of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, all victims of Russia's westward drive, the four Scandinavian powers (Finland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden) met at Stockholm to declare their solidarity. President Roosevelt sent his best wishes, having received the day before an answer to his note to Soviet President Michael Kalinin. Said the answer: "The sole aim (of Finnish-Russian negotiations) is the consolidation of reciprocal relations between the Soviet Union and Finland." There was still no official announcement of Russian "demands," but everyone knew Russia wanted naval and air bases on Finnish Baltic islands.

CONGRESS: Budding Friendship

Three weeks of neutrality debate had passed before the word "filibuster" was mentioned on the senate floor. Yet isolationists were making a fillibuster in everything but name. West Virginia's Rush D. Holt began vying with North Dakota's Gerald Nye as No. 1 speechmaker. Idaho's D. Worth Clark offered the best oratory: "If Germany is destroyed, her people will be driven into the arms of Stalin . . . This holier-than-thou attitude of England is a pretext . . . It ill-behooves England and France, with their records of persecution within their own borders, to refuse to at least treat for peace. The trail of the British empire is built on two things—blood and treachery."

McADOO
A good lobbyist.

But behind scenes there was compromise on the two most debatable points. Repeal of the arms embargo was certain, but isolationists demanded "cash-on-the-barrelhead" instead of 90-day credits to belligerents. Shippers and seaboard states demanded that proposed restrictions on U. S. shipping be relaxed. One of the latter lobbyists whose word carried weight was former Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, now a west coast shipping executive, whose call at the White House was followed quickly by modification proposals.

Key Pittman, administration leader, called his foreign affairs henchmen into council and observers were pretty sure they'd win most isolationists with these concessions:

1. Designating areas where U. S. ships could carry all materials except armament, i. e., lands like Australia and New Zealand.
2. If a U. S. vessel is destroyed with loss of life, the President would automatically stop trade in that vicinity.
3. The U. S. would not support a shipper's claim against a foreign government if a cargo is destroyed.
4. Vessel masters would be required to give the U. S. a statement of their cargo, detailing consignees and scheduled ports-of-call.
5. The entire western hemisphere would be opened to commercial aircraft.
6. "Cash-on-the-barrelhead" would be imposed not only against foreign governments, but upon residents of those countries.

From such compromise, Democratic wheelhorses saw hope for 1940. If the President disowns third-term ambitions before congress opens next January, and if he avoids any new reform or spending program, observers were pretty certain the once-disheveled Democratic party would hang together until election time.

MISCELLANY: Jews

Meeting at Washington, the international executive committee on refugees received an appeal from U. S. Jews to consider the plight of 5,000,000 Jews in eastern and central Europe, including those made homeless by the Polish partition. Meanwhile, President Roosevelt was handed a petition bearing 238,000 names, urging steps to make Palestine a Jewish haven. Next day the committee recessed for two weeks to query member governments.

Strange Facts

Bath Trains Wound Cash Mouth Prints

As most of the private houses in the towns of Transylvania have no baths, the Rumanian government now runs "bath trains" through this section. Equipped with tubs, hot water, soap and towels, they offer free bathing facilities.

The Chinese army awards a cash bonus, instead of stripes, to its soldiers when they are injured, privates getting $10, officers $40 and generals $100 for every wound.

Bank clerks, pay-roll carriers and night watchmen may now call for help during a holdup, without endangering their lives by an alarming move, through a new radio transmitter that they wear under their shirts. Taking a deep breath closes the electric circuit which makes the set silently flash alarm signals to a central receiving station.

Positive identification of horses has been found practicable through photographs or gutta-percha molds of the roofs of their mouths, which are as distinctive and individual as human fingerprints.—Collier's.

Doc's Note Came Easy To Chemist—With Cash

An invitation to dinner had been sent to the new doctor. In reply the hostess received an absolutely illegible letter.

"I must know if he accepts or declines," she declared.

"If I were you," suggested her husband, "I should take it to the druggist. They can always read doctors' letters."

The druggist looked at the sheet of notepaper which she had handed him, and without waiting for her explanation went into his dispensary and returned a few minutes later with a bottle which he handed over the counter.

"There you are, madam," he said. "That will be $1.50, please."

SHALL INDIFFERENCE DEFEAT DEMOCRACY?

The Ham & Eggs Amendment Threatens California!

This is the personal battle of every thinking person. You-- your family-- your neighbors-- MUST defeat the Ham and Egg Amendment.

This impractical, vicious cure-all promises to wreck California financially and politically.

It threatens the job you now hold and the security you enjoy.

It would add approximately $625 in taxes each year-- to you and every other employed person.

It would create a dictator to ruthlessly rule our State. The defeat of this measure is your personal battle. Don't let indifference defeat the democracy we now enjoy.
